Join Tina Augustine as she explains the value of virtuous friendships and tells us why these types of relationships are so important.

Gospel Reflection by Dr. Scott Hahn

We come to the wedding banquet of heaven by way of humility and charity. This is the fatherly instruction we hear in today's First Reading, and the message of today's Gospel.

Jesus is not talking simply about good table manners. He is revealing the way of the kingdom, in which the one who would be greatest would be the servant of all (see Luke 22:24–27).

This is the way, too, that the Father has shown us down through the ages—filling the hungry, sending the rich away empty, lifting up the lowly, pulling down the proud (see Luke 1:52–53).

We again call to mind the Exodus in today's Psalm—how in His goodness the Lord led the Israelites from imprisonment to prosperity, rained down bread from heaven, made them His inheritance, becoming a “Father of orphans.”

We now have also gained a share of His inheritance. We are to live humbly, knowing we are not worthy to receive from His table (see Luke 6:7; 15:21). We are to give alms, remembering we were ransomed from sin by the price of His blood (see 1 Corinthians 6:19–20).

The Lord promises that if we are humble we will be exalted and find favor with God; that if we are kind to those who can never repay us, we will atone for sins and find blessing in the resurrection of the righteous.

We anticipate the fulfillment of those promises in every Eucharist, today's Epistle tells us. In the Mass, we enter the festal gathering of the angels and the firstborn children of God. It is the liturgy of the heavenly Jerusalem in which Jesus is the high priest, the King who calls us to come up higher (see Proverbs 25:6–7).

22ND SUNDAY IN OT

This thankfulness is not the same as being proud, it does not take joy, nor wear weakness with a badge of honor, as some are tempted to do. One of my weaknesses, as many have unfortunately witnessed, is responding to emails, texts and phone calls. I have never felt comfortable talking with people on the phone, emails are even less personable. There is a part of my brain that still struggles to realize that it is a real person on the other end. It is also easy for me to lose track of emails and messages when I can't physically see them. Sometimes I get distracted in the middle of a message and don't get back to it for another day or two; there are even times when I think about writing a response and only much later, do I realize that I did not actually send it. I am not proud, but I am grateful for the struggle. It reminds me that I have far to go in loving people perfectly and in the spiritual life, that I cannot do everything myself and need the assistance of others, that I rely on the mercy and kindness of others, that God can work miraculous things out of my failures, it motivates me toward becoming better, and it reminds me of how much I enjoy face-to-face interactions.
